

The "Perfect" Shelf Boxes.

The attention of Hardwaremen everywhere is called to a line of goods that is being successfully used by the trade in all parts of the country. These are the "Perfect" Shelf Boxes, manufactured by C. P. Moore, Ravenswood, W.

fect Shelf Box solved the problem of how to keep a full stock of shelf goods in small space, and at same time display them in most attractive manner. The steel bodies take least possible amount of shelf room, and are indestructible. The lids, being steel, do not swell or shrink, but fit just Va. We are permitted to present several illustrations of them in this connection. Figs. 1 and 2 show a section of shelving furnished with these boxes, adapted to general and saddlery Hardware. In Fig. 3 is found one with compartments for augers, chisels, etc. This style will accommodate several sizes of goods in the same box, and at the same time keep each size separate, and thus utilizing the entire depth of shelves, which is a great saving of space. Mr. Moore makes the boxes any size desired, to fit shelving now in use, and finishes them either in hardwood or with painted fronts. He informs us that during the past two years he right, and being fastened by simple and durable hinge they are always in order and not displaced; they fit closely, excluding all dirt, dust and moisture, and keep stock in first-class condition. The price card fastened on inside of lid is in full view when box is open, the wood ends admit of handsome finish, and samples can be easily and firmly attached. The sample holder enables you to show most goods without opening or removing box from shelf, and can be replaced without inconvenience. The largely increased sales from display of goods, and the reduction of over half the work in keeping stock in good order will in a very few has introduced and sold them in thirty-five States, and exported some, and that they have given universal satisfaction. He published an illustrated catalogue and price list, that he will be pleased to send to any one on application. In a brief description of these articles he says: "The Per-

months repay the comparatively small outlay in the purchase of a set of Perfect Shelf Boxes, which will transform the old-time 'ironmonger shop' into the best arranged, most attractive and interesting store in the city; one in which trade will find constant interest in seeing the multitude of

(to them) novel and useful articles you have in stock, will cause widespread comment and then more thoroughly advertise you than any method you can adopt."
